L.A. Log Reading

We read At the Aquarium in our anthology, and worked on making predictions while reading. Please make sure your child reads their guided reading book to you when they bring it home and write it on their book log. The Ziploc bags need to come back the next day so we can add a new guided reading book to your child's collection at home. Please keep these books in a special spot and have your child read them again and again.

Writing

We spent the week writing a narrative paragraph about Halloween. We made webs about the things that we will do or did to celebrate Halloween. The children wrote their paragraphs and I encouraged them to use details when writing their sentences to help the reader visualize their story. I also helped them with the correct verb tense when writing their details.

Reminders

- Please remember to send jackets to school. The weather is starting to get cooler and the students will need them for recess.
- We started addition time tests last week. Our goal is 20 correct problems in 1 minute. If your child passes the test that they are on they will move onto a hard timed test the next week.

- November Scholastic book orders are due on 11/11.
